

EVERYONE KNEW

Weeks before her wedding, a devoted fiancée discovers that the life she is about to marry into has been built around a truth everyone else was permitted to share except her. The man she loves has a child from a previous relationship, and his family, already bound by silence, have spent years protecting a version of the future that depends on her ignorance.

As the betrayal ripples outward, what first feels like heartbreak becomes something more humiliating and more dangerous: the realisation that she has been carefully managed, reassured, and welcomed into a family structure that never trusted her with the truth. In the fallout, the one person who refuses to soften what has happened is the child's uncle, a man whose honesty cuts through every excuse and whose presence begins to reshape her understanding of love, loyalty, and what she is no longer willing to accept.

What follows is an intimate, emotionally charged drama about exclusion, family pressure, and a forbidden connection born in the wreckage of deception. As loyalties fracture and private truths begin to surface, she must decide whether the future she wanted is worth saving at all.

© 2026 Ivor Lloyd & Oliver Lloyd / MOVIE IDEAS. All rights reserved. Materials are protected under UK and international copyright law.

Full development materials are shared only under NDA.