

A FATHER'S LIE

When a disgraced former addict loses custody of her teenage daughter to the powerful lawyer she once trusted, the world sees a broken mother making one final reckless choice. But when she abducts her own child and disappears, the story begins to fracture. On the run and hunted by police, she claims the man now leading the search is not the victimised father he appears to be, but the architect of the lie that destroyed their family.

As the manhunt tightens, mother and daughter are forced into close, volatile confinement, with years of resentment, fear, and mistrust rising to the surface. The daughter wants to go home. The mother wants her to listen before it is too late. With every mile, fragments of the past begin to shift, and the version of events she has always believed starts to unravel.

Set against a world of custody battles, legal manipulation, and buried corruption, A FATHER'S LIE is a tense, emotionally charged vertical thriller about maternal desperation, weaponised truth, and the devastating cost of controlling the narrative.
